21st International Scientific Conference

MOTION
SPACES OF HUMAN EXPERIENCE

13th–15th June 2019

Warsaw, Poland

We are pleased to invite you to submit an abstract for your contribution to the 21st GTA Scientific Convention. The conference program will include plenary lectures, working groups and poster sessions. The topic of the conference "Motion – Spaces of Human Experience" discusses the phenomenon of movement in its entire breadth of expressions. Thus, moving, moving and being-moved should not only come into play as physical phenomena, but also as inner and outer developmental movements. A stated goal of the discussion is to confront the observing outside with the experienced inner perspective. The focus will be processuality of movement, motivation, emotion and communication in different areas of experience. The conference is thus decidedly interdisciplinary. Psychologists, linguists, philosophers, phenomenologists, anthropologists, psychotherapists and psychoanalysts, educational and social scientists, but also sports scientists, biologists, physicists and science theorists as well as artists are welcome to give their contribution to the Convention. We also want to reflect on the relevance of Gestalt theory and how far its approaches can be linked to other contemporary perspectives.

Submitted abstracts (see Registration form) should not contain more than 1500 characters. The extended deadline ends on 31th December 2018. Decisions on accepted papers will be announced by 31st January 2019. The conference languages are English and German.
